

'Conscious Berlin' presets the idea that architecture in its simplest form can be at its most meaningful. The design aims to focus on the individual experience by bringing architecture back to a human scale. The design intention is to address the bleakness in between the Berlin Kulturforum buildings. The central concept explored through the design is 'emptiness'. The theme is distilled into a series of interventions aiming to activate a sense of consciousness for the users of the Kultureforum.

